

Summit Materials, LLC announces 6 new acquisitions in the West and Midwest

New York, June 30, 2010 - Summit Materials is pleased to announce the recent acquisitions of Elam Construction, Inc., Grand Junction Concrete Pipe, Inc., Fischer Quarries, LLC, B&B Resources, Inc, Triple C Concrete, Inc., and Wind River Materials, LLC.

Elam Construction, based in Grand Junction, Colorado, is an aggregates, asphalt and paving business with operations across the Western Slope of Colorado. Grand Junction Concrete Pipe is an aggregates, ready-mix concrete, precast products and pipe distribution company also based in Grand Junction and serves the Western Slope market. In conjunction with these acquisitions, Lane Bybee and Chase Vernieuw, both formerly with Oldcastle Materials, have joined Summit as President and CFO of the Colorado Companies, respectively.

In addition to the two acquisitions in Colorado, Summit completed four other acquisitions in its West and Central regions. Fischer Quarries operates a quarry in Sedalia, Missouri while B&B Resources is an aggregates and ready-mix concrete producer in Salt Lake City, Utah. Triple C is an integrated ready-mix concrete, aggregates, and precast products business located in southern Idaho. Wind River Materials (formerly Enercrest Products, Inc) produces aggregates and ready-mix concrete in southwest Wyoming.

Tom Hill, CEO of Summit Materials, commented, "We are very pleased to welcome all six companies and their employees to Summit. We look forward to continuing the successful growth of these companies and are excited to offer their services to our many valued customers."

These six acquisitions serve to establish a footprint for Summit Materials in western Colorado and further strengthen Summit Materials' aggregates positions in Missouri, Utah and its adjacent states. Combined, they produce over 2M tons of aggregate, 0.5M CYD of ready-mix concrete and 0.2M tons of asphalt, and contribute about 65M tons of aggregate reserves to the Summit portfolio.
