

Discovery Health Record Solutions acquires Midwest Medical Records

December 1, 2011 – Silverhawk Capital Partners portfolio company, Discovery Health Record Solutions continued to execute its growth strategy by completing the acquisition of Midwest Medical Copy Service, Inc., a regional health information services provider, based in Ft. Wayne, IN. This transaction represents Discovery's seventh acquisition in the past 24 months, and the company now serves healthcare providers in 40 states.

Midwest Medical was founded in 1993 by Teresa Stewart, RHIA, an industry pioneer, to deliver Release of Information (ROI) services to hospitals and physician groups throughout Indiana and Kentucky. "We wanted to find a partner that could bring the benefits of scale, technology, and complementary services to our customers as they face the challenges of adopting EHR systems and adapting to other regulatory changes. We are also committed to customer service, and Discovery's management, capabilities and operating philosophy met our criteria. We are pleased to now be a part of their organization," said Teresa, CEO of Midwest Medical, "and I'm looking forward to joining them to play a key role in the growth plans going forward."

"We are continuing to aggressively pursue profitable, manageable growth, by identifying and acquiring companies with similar values to our own that serve healthcare providers in targeted markets. Midwest Medical is a great match for us, and has added valuable customers and employees to our system. We look forward to offering their customers additional health information services including our enhanced ROI model, and Document Management Services that support conversions to EHR," remarked Doug Hollman, CEO and President of Discovery.
